ALLIE SHERMAN: WINNING IS A HABIT

ALLIE SHERMAN

5th Year

COACHING: Three NFL eastern division championships in five tries! Forty-two victories and only 25 losses! A winning percentage of .626! This is the record compiled by Allie Sherman since taking over the Giants' head coaching job in 1961. For his efforts as a rookie coach in 1961, Sherman was named Coach of the Year. He won the same distinction again in 1962, making him the only NFL mentor in history to earn this honor in successive seasons. All was in the running again in 1963 finishing second, when the Giants won their third straight eastern title with an 11-3 record. In 1964, however, the tide turned and an injury-stricken Giant team sank to last place with a 2-10-2 record. They said it would be a long time before Sherman could build the Maramen into a contending team again. But they were wrong. In 1965, Allie guided a rookie-studded Giant eleven to a tie for second place with a remarkable 7-7 comeback performance. A lot of writers around the country thought this was a more masterful coaching job than he had done in any of the Giants' three straight championship seasons.

Allie Sherman's career with the New York Giants spans two periods. He was backfield coach under Steve Owen from 1949 to 1953, and one of his first jobs was the conversion of a rookie named Charlie Conerly from a single-wing tailback to a T-formation quarterback. When Owen left in 1953 and Jim Lee Howell took over, young Sherman moved up to the Canadian League as head coach at Winnipeg (1954-55-56) and made the title playoffs three straight years. He returned to the NFL in 1957 as a personnel scout for the Giants, and served in that capacity until replacing Vinnie Lombardi as offense coach in 1959. When Howell stepped down after the 1960 campaign, the Maramen didn't have to look far for his successor. Sherman was their man! Allie coached in the Senior Bowl five times (1951-52-53-59-60) and in 1961, 1962 and 1963 he headed the eastern eleven in the Pro Bowl game. Prior to entering the pro ranks, Allie coached at St. Joseph's Prep in Philadelphia on a part-time basis in 1946-47, and later helped install the T-formation at Gettysburg College in 1953. In 1948, as player-coach, he led the Paterson, N. J., Panthers to the American Association title.

PRO: Sherman was drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles in the war year of 1943, and played with Greasy Neale's club for five seasons—until 1947. Allie was never more than a second-string quarterback behind Roy Zimmerman, but coach Neale credited the little lefthander with having "one of the sharpest football minds in the business." Sherman may not have played much as an Eagle quarterback but neither did he waste his years on the bench. He absorbed all there was to learn about coaching from Neale, threw in some of his own philosophy, and then began his career with the Paterson Panthers, whence he moved up to Owen's staff at the Polo Grounds.

SCHOOL: Allie attended Boy's High in New York City (1935-38) and then played four years of football under Lou Oshins at Brooklyn College. His biggest thrill came the day underdog Brooklyn rallied to whip City College, 28-21. Al passed for two touchdowns and scored the other two. In 1942, Sherman's junior year, Oshins installed the then-new T formation and put Al at quarterback. The lefthanded kid was so adept at running the Brooklyn T that Philadelphia pro scouts immediately grabbed him to operate the Eagles' T.

PERSONAL: Sherman was born on February 10, 1923. He has one sister, Miriam. He majored in psychology and economics at Brooklyn College and was graduated Cum Laude in 1942. He and pretty wife Joan have three children, Randy, Lori and Robin. "Randy is interested in sports," smiles Al, "but somehow he always wants to be the coach instead of a player." Sherman likes tennis as a hobby—but not as much as he likes looking at football films after the rest of the clan has retired for the night. "I never get tired of football," he admits.

GIANTS' ASSISTANT COACHES

ED KOLMAN

Line Coach

14th Year

COACHING: Kolman has been with the Giants since 1950, but missed three years (1957-59) when he left the coaching lines to enter private business. He returned to his first love in 1960 and has been instrumental in the winning of three NFL eastern division titles since then. In his early days with New York, Ed helped develop such all-pro linemen as Rosey Brown, Ray Wietecha and Jack Stroud. His more recent proteges have been all-pro guard Darrell Dess, now with Washington; center Greg Larson and guard Bookie Bolin.

PRO: A member of the powerhouse Chicago Bear teams of the early 1940's, Kolman played tackle alongside such greats as Lee Artoe and Jumbo Joe Stydahar. He took part in the Bears' ineffable 73-0 world championship win over Washington in 1940, saw full-time duty in the 37-9 win over the Giants for the 1941 title, and played in the 14-6 loss to Washington the following year. He returned to the Bears in 1946 after a military hitch and played in the 24-14 world title victory over the Giants at the Polo Grounds that year. A leg injury sidelined Kolman during 1948 and he was traded to New York, where he ended his playing career in 1949.

SCHOOL: Ed played football at Stuyvesant and Boy's High in New York and was All-Met at the latter. He played varsity ball at Temple U. from 1937-1939, and twice won All-American honors.

PERSONAL: Born October 21, 1917, in Greenpoint section of Brooklyn, Ed and his wife Adele have two children, Edwina and Richard. Ed is a music lover who plays the violin; he had his own band in college. He works for the Austin-Nichols Company in the off-season in the New York area but also puts in a lot of time huddling with head coach Al Sherman. He served as a Navy lieutenant for three and a half years in World War II, and won the Bronze Star.

KEN KAVANAUGH

End Coach

12th Year

COACHING: Kavanaugh joined the Giants in 1955 as an offensive end coach and has held that job ever since. The former Chicago Bear great works closely with head coach Al Sherman on end play and on the offensive passing game. Ken also acts as Sherman's press box spotter during the games, relaying information down to the sideline via telephone and Polaroid pictures. He served as an assistant coach at Villanova in 1954.

PRO: Ken was one of the most famous ends in NFL history as a member of the great Bear teams of the pre-war era. He played on the championship Chicago elevens of 1940, 1941, and 1946. He is the second highest scorer in Bear annals with 330 points and the No. 2 all-time Chicago touchdown-maker with 55. His remarkable receiving record shows one touchdown for every three passes caught. Ken is a member of the Chicago Bears' Hall of Fame and the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame.

SCHOOL: An All-American end at LSU from 1936-40, Ken also starred on the LSU baseball team, and made good as a minor leaguer before joining the Bears. His exploits at LSU won Ken a niche in the National Foundation Football Hall of Fame.

PERSONAL: Kavanaugh was born on November 23, 1916, in Little Rock, Ark. In the off-season, he operates a lumber business in Philadelphia, where he lives with his wife Ann and their two children. Ken served with the Air Force in World War II as a pilot and rose to the rank of captain. He flew 30 missions and earned the Air Medal and the Distinguished Flying Cross.

HARRY WRIGHT

Offensive Backfield Coach

3rd Year

COACHING: Now in his third season as offensive backfield coach of the Giants, Harry Wright lends a wealth of coaching experience and football acumen to coach Allie Sherman's staff. Although he had no prior experience as a pro coach before joining the Giants in 1964, Harry is well qualified for the job. He started his career by turning out championship teams at Aquinas Institute in Rochester, N. Y. Then he coached at the U. of Portland and later moved to the U. of Georgia, serving as offensive backfield coach under Wally Butts from 1951-58. His last assignment before taking the Giant job was at the Kings Point Merchant Marine Academy, where he put football back on the map and compiled a record of 32 wins and 23 losses from 1958-63.

SCHOOL: Wright played football at Notre Dame in 1940-41-42. He started as a quarterback in his sophomore year but was switched to running guard by Frank Leahy in 1941. As a lineman, he continued to call signals for the Irish. He also starred in baseball and gymnastics at South Bend, winning three major letters. He was a durable 60-minute player who earned the name "Harry the Horse" because of his stamina.

PERSONAL: Harry was born on October 4, 1919, in New York City and lived in the Big Town most of his life—until moving to Lake Mohawk in Sparta, N. J., in 1965. He attended Chaminade High School in Mineola, L. I., where he won a football scholarship to Notre Dame. Harry and his wife Claire have five children, four of them boys.

FRANK (POP) IVY

Defensive Coach

2nd Year

COACHING: Pop Ivy is a veteran of head coaching assignments in three different professional leagues. In a long and distinguished career that has covered virtually every job in football, Ivy served as head coach of the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian League (1954-57), head coach of the St. Louis (nee Chicago) Cardinals (1958-61) and head coach of the Houston Oilers of the American Football League (1962-63). At Edmonton, he guided the Eskimos to three straight Grey Cup championships and a three-year record of 50-14. Incidentally, in Canada he was a coaching rival of his Giant boss, Allie Sherman, who was then head man at Winnipeg. Prior to his tour of duty North of the Border, Pop was an assistant to Bud Wilkinson at the U. of Oklahoma for six years. In 1964, the Giants hired Ivy as a personnel scout for the Southwest and Big Eight Conferences and, with the retirement of Andy Robustelli, Pop was given the defensive coaching job in 1965.

PRO: After a brilliant career at Oklahoma, Ivy was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1940. Later that season he was traded to the Chicago Cardinals, the team he was to eventually coach. In 1942, Pop was the NFL's second best pass catcher behind the legendary Don Hutson. Frank caught 27 for 259 yards that year. Ivy served with the Army in Europe during World War II and then returned to the Cardinals from 1945 through 1947. In the latter part of his NFL career he put in some time as a defensive end.

SCHOOL: Ivy entered the U. of Oklahoma in 1936 following a fabulous career as a schoolboy athlete at Skiatook (Okla.) High. He played as a regular for three seasons and earned four varsity letters. He was an All-American selection in 1939, his senior year.

PERSONAL: Pop was born on January 25, 1916, in Skiatook, Okla. He and his wife, the former Inez Daniel, now live in Norman, Okla., with their two grown children, a boy and a girl. Frank received a degree in education at the U. of Oklahoma and works with industrial real estate when he's not coaching football. At the age of 50, looks like he could still play a couple of fast quarters at end. He's 6-4 and a trim 220 pounds.

EMLLEN TUNNELL

Defensive Assistant

4th Year

COACHING: Although 1966 marks Tunnell's second season as a full-time coach, it is actually his fourth season as a member of the Giants' staff. In 1963 and 1964, Em combined his scouting chores with special coaching assignments in training camp. Now, as the first regular Negro coach in NFL history, the one-time all-pro defensive back works under defensive coach Frank (Pop) Ivy on a regular basis. Naturally, Em's prime area of concern is secondary.

PRO: Tunnell walked into the offices of the Giants in the summer of 1948 and convinced the late T. J. Mara that he was good enough to play pro ball. Em was signed as a free agent and went on to a glorious career in the NFL. He was a great safetyman with the Giants for 11 years (1948-58) and then spent three additional seasons with Green Bay (1959-61) before retiring. Em was one of the true iron men of the sport. With the Giants he set a consecutive game record of 126, which still stands, and ran that string to 158 with the Packers. Tunnell still holds two NFL records—most career interceptions (79) and most career punt returns (258). Tunnell was a member of the Giants' celebrated "umbrella" defense but he also was a fellow who piled up lots of yardage for New York. In 1952 he gained 924 yards on interceptions and kick returns; the following year he totaled 819 yards the same way. They called him "... the offense on defense." He was a vicious head-on tackler in the secondary, a guy feared by every back who ran the ball around his side.

SCHOOL: Tunnell enrolled at Toledo University in 1942 but left shortly thereafter for a three-year Coast Guard wartime hitch that took him all over the South Pacific. After the war, he enrolled at the U. of Iowa and became a fine all-round performer in the Big Ten. He was a fine offensive back and a demon on defense. Em also earned letters in basketball.

PERSONAL: Emlen Lewis Tunnell was born on March 29, 1925, in Bryn Mawr, Pa. He was a standout athlete at Radnor High School in Wayne, Pa., and earned a scholarship to Toledo. Em served in the Coast Guard for 38 months and earned three invasion stars in World War II. He and his wife Patricia make their off-season home in Philadelphia.

TOM SCOTT

Defensive Assistant

2nd Year

COACHING: With the advent of a fine crop of young linebackers in 1965, Tom Scott retired as an active player to accept an assistant coaching position with the Giants. His 13 years as a standout defensive player, first with Philadelphia and later with New York, give him a solid background for his assignment as a line-backing coach.

PRO: Scott was obtained by the Giants in a trade with the Philadelphia Eagles prior to the 1959 season. He won a regular corner linebacking job with the Maramen in 1960 and was a mainstay of the defense up until the time of his retirement. The Eagles originally got Scotty from the Los Angeles Rams. At Philadelphia, Tom was a long-time member of the renowned defensive line known as the "Suicide Seven." During his career, he played both defensive end and linebacker.

SCHOOL: Tom earned All-American honors in two sports at Virginia—football and lacrosse, one of the few men ever to achieve this "double." He captained the Cavalier football team and won All-South laurels two straight years (1951-52). He also won letters in baseball. Tom played in the East-West game in 1952 and the College All-Star game in 1953.

PERSONAL: Scott was born on September 3, 1930, in Baltimore, Md. He is married to the former Joan Davis and they have five children—Tom, David, Sandy, Mike and Pat. Tom served as a 2nd Lt. in the Marines for one year. He is an amateur inventor and has had several items patented. Scott is employed by Massachusetts Mutual in the off-season. He is of English-German descent.

JIM LEE HOWELL

Director of Player Personnel

In a quarter of a century with the Football Giants, towering, affable and efficient Jim Lee Howell has filled a variety of posts—player, assistant coach, head coach and now director of player personnel. Jim Lee joined the Giants in 1937 after a brilliant athletic career at the U. of Arkansas (he was a member of the U.S. Olympic basketball team and was among the fine crop of rookies who led the Maramen to the world title in 1938 and eastern crowns in 1939 and 1941. He was a regular two-way Giant end for a total of nine years, 1937-42 and 1946-48, his career being interrupted for a wartime hitch with the Marines in the South Pacific. Upon the completion of his playing days, Howell served as end coach under Steve Owen from 1949-53. During the same period, he was head coach at Wagner College. He moved into the No. 1 job when Owen departed in 1953. Over a seven-year period with Howell as head coach, New York won three divisional titles (1956-58-59) and one world championship (1956). Three of Howells assistants are now head coaches in their own right—Al Sherman (Giants), Tom Landry (Dallas) and Vin Lombardi (Green Bay). One of his former players, Harland Svare, was head coach of the Los Angeles Rams. And another, Bill Austin, is now head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers. When Jim Lee retired from the coaching lines after the 1960 campaign, he immediately was named director of player personnel for the Giants. In this job, he supervises the club's far-flung and ever-expanding recruiting system, works in close liaison with the scouts and correlates the voluminous material compiled on college players from every section of the land. Thanks to his years in the game and a wealth of experience, Jim Lee is ideally suited for such a position. He is very popular with the college coaches and athletic directors with whom he must work to keep the talent flowing in New York's direction each year. Howell still owns a large farm in his home town at Lonoke, Ark., but spends most of his time in Englewood, N. J., with his wife Sue and their four children, Tim, Mark, Susan and James Lee, Jr.

VETERAN PLAYER BIOGRAPHIES

TREVA (BOOKIE) BOLIN

Guard

5th Year

U. of Mississippi

26 240 6-2

Okolona, Miss.

PRO: Bolin was drafted on the fifth round as a "future" for the 1963 season but was signed by the Giants in 1962 when the NCAA ruled him ineligible for further collegiate competition. As a rookie, he saw part-time duty at guard and was a leading member of the "suicide squads"—the kickoff and punting teams. For the past three years he has been New York's regular right guard.

SCHOOL: Bookie was a regular guard for Ole Miss in his sophomore and junior seasons. He won three varsity letters, two in football, and played in the 1961 Sugar Bowl and the 1962 Cotton Bowl. He won acclaim as one of the top linemen ever developed at Mississippi.

PERSONAL: Born on June 17, 1940, in Hamilton, Ala., he is married to the former Joyce Gentry, and they have one daughter. A top student at Ole Miss, Bolin was named to the Scholastic All-American team and the Southeastern Conference All-Scholastic squad. He hopes to pursue a career in coaching when his playing days are over. His hobbies include hunting and fishing.

ROOSEVELT BROWN

Offensive Tackle

14th Year

Morgan State

34 255 6-3

Teaneck, N. J.

PRO: Drafted No. 27 for the 1953 season in what is generally regarded as one of the greatest "sleeper" picks of all time, Rosey has been named to the Pro Bowl game eight years in a row, and is a perennial All Pro selection at tackle. In 1956, when the Giants won the world title, Rosey was named Lineman of the Year by the Associated Press. He ranks with top offensive tackles in league history. Brown is big, fast, agile, and a fine downfield blocker. He also has been used to reinforce the defensive forward wall on goal-line stands. He is the team's offensive captain.

SCHOOL: Brown was two-time member of Negro All-American eleven and co-captained the Morgan State team for two years. He played in Polo Grounds against Wilberforce in the Negro grid classic. Rosey won four major letters in football, two in wrestling and one in baseball. He was a two-time captain of the Morgan State mat squad and won several heavyweight titles during collegiate career.

PERSONAL: Rosey was born on October 20, 1932. He is married to the former Thelma Curenton and lives in Teaneck, N. J., where wife teaches school. Brown is employed on the sales force of the P. Ballantine and Sons Company in New Jersey area. Rosey was born in Charlottesville, Va., and attended Jefferson High School there. He went out for football because, "My high school coach thought I was too big to be playing trombone in the school band." Rosey's boyhood grid idol was Marion Motley, famed Cleveland Browns' fullback.

HENRY CARR

Defensive Back

2nd Year

Arizona State

23 195 6-3

Detroit, Mich.

PRO: Although he was known more for his world record and Olympic performances as a 220 and 200-meter sprinter than for his football talents, Carr was the Giants' fourth-round draft choice for the 1965 season. He justified the club's faith in him by winning a job as regular right safety during his rookie year. The switch from track to pro football was a tough one but Carr made it with determination and hard work. He proved himself to be a rugged tackler and a guy who always seemed to be around the ball. With a year's experience under his belt, plus his natural size, Carr could also be used as a corner back by the Giants.

SCHOOL: At Arizona State, Carr played only one full season of football (1962) but averaged eight yards a carry as a running back and was a fine receiver as a flanker.

He played on the same Arizona State team as Charley Taylor (Redskins) and Tony Lorick (Colts). Injuries held Henry out of action in 1963 and then, in 1964, he gave up football entirely to concentrate on track—and the Olympic Games! At Tokyo, he won the Olympic 200-meter title in the record time of 20.3 and anchored the victorious U.S. 1,600-meter relay team to earn two Gold Medals. He also holds the world record of 20.2 for the 220-yard event. He has run the hundred in 9.2, second fastest time in history. Henry earned four letters at Arizona State.

PERSONAL: Henry Carr was born on November 27, 1942, in Detroit, Mich., where he still makes his home. He comes from a large family—eight boys and five girls, which might explain how he developed that early speed getting to the dinner table. Prior to entering Arizona State, he went to Burlington (Iowa) Junior College, and before that he was a three-sport star at Detroit's Northwestern High, where he once scored seven touchdowns in one game, none of them on runs of less than 30 yards. Carr is married to the former Glenda Mixon. He is finishing his degree in physical education during the off-season.

JIM CARROLL

Linebacker

2nd Year

U. of Notre Dame

23 230 6-1

Atlanta, Ga.

PRO: Carroll was the Gants' No. 12 draft selection for the 1965 season on the basis of his aggressive defensive play as a senior at Notre Dame. With the retirement of Bill Winter, Jim got a shot at a starting corner spot with the Maramen, and played most of his rookie season as a regular. He's a vicious tackler and a fellow with sound defensive instinct.

SCHOOL: Called by coach Ara Parseghian "... a great ballplayer and leader," Carroll was captain of the 1964 Notre Dame team and also its most valuable player. He led the Irish defensive unit—one of the best in South Bend annals—with 140 individual tackles, a record, from his inside linebacker spot. He was named to the Time and Sporting News All America first teams, and won designation on the second-team AP and UPI All Americas. Jim was the only player at Notre Dame ever to win the Hering Award two years in a row for consistency of play in Spring practice. He starred in both the East-West game and the Coaches' All-American game.

PERSONAL: Jim was born on May 6, 1943, in Jonesboro, Ark., but spent most of his early years in Atlanta, Ga., which is still his hometown even though he spends much of the off-season in and around New York City. A bachelor, he majored in communication arts at Notre Dame but is still undecided as to what he'd like to do in the future. He was a center and linebacker at Marist High in Atlanta. Jim is of Scotch-Irish descent.

PETE CASE

Guard

5th Year

Georgia U.

25 245 6-3

Dacula, Ga.

PRO: The Giants obtained Case in a 1965 pre-season trade with Philadelphia and he immediately stepped into the vacancy created at left guard when Darrell Dess was dealt to Washington. By the end of his first season with the Giants, Pete was a tower of strength on the offensive line—and one of the big reasons the "Baby Bull" backs were able to pile up so much yardage. The Eagles drafted Case No. 2 for the 1962 season and he became a regular in 1964.

SCHOOL: Case was an All-Southeastern Conference selection in his second year at Georgia, then was selected to play in both the Blue-Gray and Senior Bowl games where he further distinguished himself. He also starred in the 1959 Orange Bowl.

PERSONAL: Born Ronald Lee Case on Dec. 27, 1940, in Dayton, O., Case decided to call himself Pete for an unusual reason. Seems there were nothing but Ronalds in his neighborhood and when he missed a meal because of too many calls for Ronald, Case changed his name to Pete. He has a degree in business administration. He is still a bachelor.

CLARENCE CHILDS

Muldrow, Okla.

PRO: The Giants selected Condren as a "future" pick on the 11th round of the 1964 NFL player draft. Glen joined the club in 1965 but was hampered by a knee which had not responded to surgery he had undergone after his senior year at Oklahoma. After training camp, the club sent Glen home to strengthen the knee, and he came back to play several games at the end of the season.

TOM COSTELLO

Linebacker

3rd Year

U. of Dayton

25 240 6-3

Flushing, N. Y.

PRO: Signed as a free agent prior to the 1964 campaign on the advice of backfield coach Harry Wright, Costello spent most of the season on the Giants' taxi squad but saw limited action near the end of the year when injuries depleted the New York roster. In 1965, Tom impressed Allie Sherman with his hard-nosed, aggressive defensive play. He could be used as a tight end, too, a position he played in high school and college.

SCHOOL: Tom started out at the University of Miami in 1959 but transferred to Dayton the following year and was a regular with the Flyers for three seasons. He saw service as an end and as a defensive halfback but eventually outgrew the latter position.

He was used sparingly as a receiver by the Browns, however, and caught just six passes for 97 yards in three seasons. He was employed mainly on the special units by Cleveland. Bobby came to the Giants prior to the 1964 season in a straight player trade for veteran defensive tackle Dick Modzelewski. With the Giants in 1964, Bob caught 12 passes for 165 yards. ROGER DAVISGuard*7th Year*Syracuse U.*28 240 6-2*Chardon, O.

PRO: After a brilliant career at Syracuse, Davis was drafted on the first round by the Chicago Bears in 1960. A knee injury retarded his progress as a rookie but he played in all 14 games his second year and started 13 of 14 in 1963. The Bears traded Roger to Los Angeles as part of the Jon Arnett deal and he became a regular guard for the Rams in 1964. The Giants acquired Davis on waivers when the Rams released him during the 1965 season. He spent most of the year on the "taxi" squad but was activated briefly at the end of the campaign.

SCHOOL: A three-year letterman, Davis captained the fine Syracuse team of 1959 and earned All-American recognition from the AP, UPI and Look Magazine. Additionally, he won the Knute Rockne Award as Lineman of the Year in 1959. He played in the College All Star game that year.

ROOSEVELT DAVISDefensive End*2nd Year*Tenn. A & I*24 260 6-5*Detroit, Mich.

PRO: Davis was the No. 8 draft pick of the Baltimore Colts for 1965 and was among the final players cut in training camp. The Giants, who were having injury problems on the defensive line at the time, acquired the big end on waivers. Davis was a starter in several games as a rookie and made fine progress. Big and agile, he shows promise of becoming a top defensive lineman.

SCHOOL: Tennessee A & I coach John Merritt said of Davis, "He's amazingly quick for his size and very strong, and there's no doubt in my mind that he'll make the grade in the NFL." A knee injury hampered Rosey for a time in college but still he turned in an outstanding job on the defensive line. He also played offensive tackle for a time. He won four letters in football.

PERSONAL: Rosey was born on November 29, 1941, in Jackson, Miss., into a family that included six sisters and no brothers. TUCKER FREDERICKSON

Fullback

2nd Year

Auburn University

23 230 6-2

Hollywood, Fla.

PRO: A unanimous selection on just about every All-American team in 1964, Frederickson was the No. 1 choice of the Giants—and the first player selected in the NFL draft for the 1965 season. As a rookie, Tucker more than lived up to his advance notices. He led the Giants in ball-carrying with 659 yards on 195 tries for a 3.8 average, caught 24 passes for 177 yards, tied for the club scoring lead with 36 points, and was a tower of strength as a pass blocker for quarterback Earl Morrall. Most NFL coaches regarded him as one of the finest rookie backs to enter the league since Jimmy Brown.

SCHOOL: "The greatest college football player in America!" That's what they called Frederickson last year. The 6-2 230-pound athlete was named to the AP, Look Magazine, Football Writers' Association, Sporting News, Helms Foundation and NEA All-American teams. He was also selected as Player of the Year in the South by UPI, and as Player of the Year in the Southeastern Conference. His coach Shug Jordan called him "... the most complete football player I ever coached." At Auburn, Tucker did just about everything. He led the Tigers in rushing with 580 yards on 129 carries, in receiving with 14 for 101 yards, in scoring with six touchdowns, in kickoff returns with seven for 179 yards, and was tops in most defensive categories as well. He twice won the Jacobs Trophy, awarded annually to the best blocker in the Southeastern Conference. The Atlanta Touchdown Club and the Birmingham Quarterback Club named him Player of the Year for 1964 and he was selected as the outstanding athlete in the state of Florida. After the close of Auburn's season, Tucker starred in both the North-South Shrine game and the Senior Bowl. All told, Frederickson won four letters at Auburn, three in football and one for shot putting on the track squad.

PERSONAL: Ivan Charles Frederickson (Tucker is only a nickname) was born on January 12, 1943, in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., the only boy in a family that includes three girls. Shortly thereafter the Frederickson clan moved down the road to Hollywood, Fla., where Tucker's dad, Ivan Sr., a Canadian by birth, opened a veterinarian shop. Tucker starred at South Broward H.S. and chose Auburn over other colleges because it offered a good pre-veterinarian course. He received a degree in biological science and made Who's Who in American Colleges as an honor student. A bachelor, Frederickson is of Scandinavian descent.

WENDELL HARRISDefensive Back*5th Year*L.S.U.*26 185 5-11*Natchitoches, La.

PRO: The No. 1 draft selection of the Baltimore Colts for the 1962 season, Harris came to the Giants in the Spring of 1966 in exchange for defensive end Andy Stynchula, a straight player trade. With the Colts, he played both defensive halfback and safety in addition to running back punts and kickoffs. In 1965, as a regular performer in the Baltimore secondary, he intercepted three passes for 77 yards. He ranked fifth among NFL punt-returns in 1964 with a 12.6 average on 17 tries.

SCHOOL: At Louisiana State University, Harris was a genuine all-purpose back. He excelled both offensively and defensively and did all of the Tiger's place-kicking. He was used both as a running back and as a flanker.

PERSONAL: Harris was born in Baton Rouge, La., on October 2, 1940, and was a star athlete at Baton Rouge High before earning a sports scholarship to LSU. He and his wife Freddie have two children, Kimberly and Wendell III. While with Baltimore, Wendel spent his off-seasons pursuing his degree at LSU.

JERRY HILLEBRANDLinebacker*4th Year*Colorado U.*26 240 6-3*Davenport, Iowa

PRO: Hillebrand was the Giants' No. 1 draft pick for the 1962 season after a sensational college career which earned him All-American honors as an end at Colorado. He was carried on the taxi squad his first season, and in 1963 he made the squad as a corner linebacker. Hillebrand was nominated to take over the middle linebacker vacancy created by the Sam Huff trade in 1964. However, a knee injury sidelined him for most of the campaign and while he was out, rookie Lou Slaby won the middle job. So when Hillebrand returned, he found himself back at the corner. But in 1965, he won the middle spot back again as Slaby moved to defensive tackle.

SCHOOL: Jerry was a unanimous All-American at the University of Colorado in 1961. He also earned all-conference and all-state honors in football and basketball. He holds the Colorado school record of most yards gained on pass receptions in one game—137. He also kicked a record 54-yard field goal. Jerry played in the Orange Bowl and the Hula Bowl games after the 1961 season.

PERSONAL: Hillebrand was born on March 28, 1940, in Davenport, Iowa, where he still makes his off-season home. He is married to the former Judith Posafiri. Jerry spent six months in the U.S. Marine Corps prior to reporting to the Giants in 1962. He majored in physical education but is undecided as to what he wants to do in the future.

HOMER JONESFlanker-End*3rd Year*Texas Southern*25 205 6-2*Pittsburgh, Tex.

PRO: Jones was the No. 20 draft choice of the Giants for the 1963 season, even though at the time he already had signed with Houston of the American Football League. However, Homer was plagued by a knee injury at Houston and was released. He called the Giants and asked if they would be interested in giving him a trial. Coach Al Sherman replied, "Yes." Jones showed the Giants enough to warrant keeping him on the taxi squad in 1963 and part of 1964. When he was activated late in the 1964 season, Homer was used on the kicking teams and at flanker. With the retirement of Frank Gifford, Jones took over the flanker position in 1965—and what a season he had! He caught 26 passes for 709 yards, or 27.3 yards per catch, and scored six touchdowns. His 89-yard TD reception from Earl Morrall was the longest scoring pass of the year in the NFL.

SCHOOL: Homer was a two-sport star at Texas Southern, winning three letters each in football and track. On the gridiron, he led Texas Southern in pass receiving for two years. As a dash man in track, Jones ran the hundred in 9.3 and set a Southwest Athletic Conference record of 20.7 in the 220. He won a gold medal for the U.S. track team that humbled the Russians in 1960. He was all-conference in football.

PERSONAL: Homer Carroll Jones was born on February 18, 1941, in Pittsburg, Tex., where he still lives. He majored in industrial education in college but still has time to go for his degree. He is married and has two children.

JIM KATCAVAGE

Defensive End

11th Year

U. of Dayton

31 240 6-3

Philadelphia, Pa.

PRO: Jim was drafted No. 4 in 1956, joining the Giants at the same time as such other top rookie picks as Sam Huff and Don Chandler. He immediately won a starting berth at defensive end and was a big factor in the Giants' 1956 world championship. "Kat" can play either defensive end or tackle but coach Al Sherman prefers him at end, where he won All-Pro honors in the 1961, 1962 and 1963 AP and UPI polls. Jim used to be called "one of the most under-rated payers" on the defense but now he ranks with the NFL's top defensive ends. Jim, the Giants' defensive captain, starred in the 1963 and 1964 Pro Bowl Games.

SCHOOL: Katcavage co-captained the Dayton eleven. He played end on both offense and defense, but the latter was his specialty. He made the All-American team in 1955 and also the Catholic All-American squad. Jim played in the East-West game in 1955 and the College All-Star game the following year.

PERSONAL: Jim was born on October 28, 1934, in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. He is married to the former Catherine Gould and they have a baby daughter. "Kat's" brother, Bob, played for the U. of Dayton eleven. Jim served six months as an Army PFC. In the off-season, Jim is in the concrete sales business in New York. At Dayton, Katcavage majored in industrial management. He is of Lithuanian descent.

ERNIE KOY

Halfback

2nd Year

U. of Texas

23 230 6-3

Bellville, Tex.

PRO: Koy was drafted No. 11 by the Giants for 1965 and by the end of his rookie season had established himself as an outstanding member of the Baby Bulls backfield. A back injury shelved Ernie early in the season and limited him to punting appearances. But when he got a chance to carry the ball, he piled up 174 yards on 35 tries for a fine 5.0 average. Koy is a strong runner who can go inside or outside, a good option passer and a capable receiver.

SCHOOL: Although hampered by injuries during his first two years at the U. of Texas, Koy catapulted into national prominence in 1964 as the Longhorns rolled to a 9-1 record and then knocked off favored Alabama in the Orange Bowl. That score was 21-17 and Ernie sewed it up with a brilliant 79-yard touchdown run, an Orange Bowl record. He also scored a second TD against Alabama. Koy was a tower of strength for Texas all year. He carried 154 times for 574 yards, averaging four yards a try. He completed five of 11 option passes, caught nine aeriels for 146 yards and averaged 39 yards on 51 punts. As a promising sophomore, Ernie was sidelined in 1962 with torn knee ligaments. As a junior, a shoulder separation put him out for eight games. But his performance as a senior made everyone, especially the pro scouts, forget all about the first two years. Koy won four letters at Texas, three in football and one in track. He played in the Cotton Bowl twice, in the Orange Bowl and in the Hula Bowl.

PERSONAL: Ernie was born on October 22, 1942, in Bellville, Tex., where his father, Ernie Sr., still owns a large ranch. Ernie Sr. was a legend in the Southwest in the early 1930s, an All-American in baseball and football. He later played major league ball with the Brooklyn Dodgers (1938-39), St. Louis, Cincinnati and Philadelphia.

Although Ernie Sr. was known as the Chief, he says there isn't a single drop of Indian blood in the Koy family. Young Ernie was the third draft choice of Houston but says he chose the Giants because "... the NFL plays the best football and besides, my daddy told me so much about New York City that I wanted to see it for myself." Ernie majored in history at Texas and is working towards his Masters degree between seasons. He is single, and his favorite past-time is hunting mountain lions in the wilds of Mexico with former U. of Texas buddies.

BOB LACEY

Offensive End

3rd Year

North Carolina

24 205 6-3

Pelham, N. Y.

PRO: Lacey was the No. 6 draft choice of the Minnesota Vikings for the 1964 season but was injured in the College All-Star game that summer and spent most of the year on the inactive list. He was activated at the end of the campaign and played briefly against the Chicago Bears. In 1965, Bob suffered a knee injury in the Vikings' camp and was subsequently placed on waivers. The Giants claimed him early in September and put him on the "taxi" squad until his leg healed. He was activated for the final game against Dallas.

SCHOOL: Bob was an All-American end at North Carolina in 1963 and was rated highly by NFL scouts as a possible flanker back. He was a 9.8 man in the hundred and had pro moves even as a collegian.

PERSONAL: Bob was born on March 30, 1942, in Port Chester, N. Y. He attended Trinity Pawling Prep in New York's Putnam County and there earned a grid scholarship to North Carolina. His father, Dick, is prominent in track and field circles and is a high school coach. Bob is still single and spent the off-season working toward his degree. His hobbies are golf and tennis.

ROGER LaLONDE

Defensive Tackle

3rd Year

Muskingum College

24 255 6-3

Southfield, Mich.

PRO: LaLonde was drafted No. 15 by the Detroit Lions for the 1964 season and spent most of his rookie season learning the trade as a stand-in for Alex Karras and Roger Brown. He was released prior to the 1965 season and the Giants, in dire need of defensive line help because of injuries, claimed him on waivers. He was a starter most of the year at left tackle.

SCHOOL: As captain of the Muskingum eleven, LaLonde won all-Ohio Conference honors in 1963 and also received recognition on the Little All-America squad that year. Roger, who specialized on defense during most of his college career, won three football letters and capped his varsity career with an outstanding performance in the 1964 Senior Bowl game.

PERSONAL: Roger F. LaLonde was born on January 6, 1942, in the small upstate New York town of Antwerp but grew up around Van Wert, Ohio, where he was a three-sport high school star. He received a degree in physical education at Muskingum and is a steel salesman in the off-season. Still a bachelor, Roger is of French-Canadian descent. His hobbies are golf and fishing.

GREG LARSON

Center

6th Year

Minnesota

27 250 6-3

Minneapolis, Minn.

PRO: Larson was the Giants' No. 6 draft choice for 1961. Originally the plan was to use him at center, but Greg was moved to tackle as a rookie and won the starting job despite the fact that he hadn't played that position since his high school days. In 1962, Greg was shifted to guard and again the husky youngster responded with superb performance as the Giants won the divisional title. When Ray Wietecha retired in 1963, Larson finally made it to his chosen position—center—and was a tower of strength in the middle of the line for the eastern champs. Greg suffered torn ligaments in his knee during 1964 and underwent surgery. The operation threatened to end Larson's career but he worked his way back into condition by mid-season in 1965 and was back at his old job when the campaign ended. "It was," says coach Allie Sherman, "a tribute to his determination."

SCHOOL: Greg was the regular center and linebacker for Minnesota's 1961 Rose Bowl team. He was an AP and UPI All-Conference selection, All-Big Ten and also made the Catholic All-American team. He played in the Rose Bowl, Senior Bowl and College All-Star games.

PERSONAL: Larson was born on November 15, 1939. He is married to the former Josephine Blegen, and they have two children. Greg works in the investments field between seasons and someday he hopes to become a stock broker. He is of Swedish descent. He is one of the most dedicated football men on the Giants squad. He spent as much as four hours a day lifting weights at home during the off-season to try and strengthen his injured knee.

CARL LOCKHART

Defensive Back

2nd Year

N. Texas State

23 175 6-1

Dallas, Tex.

PRO: Lockhart was the Giants' No. 13 draft selection for 1965 on the strong recommendation of defensive coach Frank (Pop) Ivy, who scouted him during his senior year. Carl, whose nickname is Spider, responded by winning the regular left corner back job as a rookie. He tied Dick Lynch for the team interception title with four, returning them 117 yards, and definitely established himself as a coming star in the N.F.L. Spider lacks great breakaway speed but has fine quickness and is a hard-hitting, aggressive tackler in the open field despite his 175 pounds. He was the No. 2 punter behind Ernie Koy.

SCHOOL: Carl was a three-year letterman for North Texas State, playing both defensive halfback and flanker back despite the two-platoon system. His career totals show 60 carries for 237 yards rushing, 32 pass receptions for 384 yards and four touchdowns, 95 punts for a 39.5 average and 10 pass interceptions. In 1963 and 1964 he led the Missouri Valley Conference in punting. Lockhart was a perennial MVC all-conference selection and also received honorable mention on several All-American teams. An all around athlete, Lockhart also played basketball at North Texas State and was a hurdler on the track team.

PERSONAL: Carl was born on April 6, 1943, in Dallas, Tex., into a family of seven children. He is married to the former Erma Jean Havis and they live in Dallas. He majored in physical education at North Texas with a minor in biology. His hobbies include swimming and bowling. His goal is to become a football coach.

JOHN LoVETERE

Defensive Tackle

8th Year

Compton J.C.

30 285 6-4

Cypress, Calif.

PRO: The Giants acquired LoVetere from the Los Angeles Rams for Rosey Grier prior to the 1963 season—and it was one of the best moves the club ever made. The big guy was a pillar of strength at defensive tackle during the Maramen's drive to their third straight eastern championship. John gave the forward line another great pass rusher. LoVetere was the Ram's top defensive lineman for four years despite the fact that he was only a free agent with no major college experience. He was the club's Rookie of the Year in 1959 and earned MVP awards in 1960 and 1961. In 1960, Big John personally blocked five enemy kicks, a figure believed to be a league record. During the 1964 season, LoVetere suffered torn ligaments in his knee and underwent an operation. The injury caused accompanying back problems which plagued John in 1965, forcing him to miss most of the season.

SCHOOL: LoVetere attended Compton Junior College for two seasons but did not play varsity football. But he was scouted by the Rams while playing for Ft. Campbell in Kentucky and was signed immediately after being discharged from the Army.

PERSONAL: Born on May 31, 1936, in Boston, Mass., John is the oldest of eight brothers. He and his wife Evelyn have two children and live in Cypress, Calif. His favorite pastimes are hunting and weight-lifting. He used to spend a lot of time at the Los Angeles Athletic Club working out with shot-putting champion Dallas Long, another weight-lifting bug. LoVetere attended Paramount High in Los Angeles and once ran the hundred in 9.8. John is of French descent.

DICK LYNCH

Defensive Back

9th Year

Notre Dame

30 198 6-1

Douglaston, N. Y.

PRO: Lynch was drafted No. 6 by the Washington Redskins in 1958 and was a regular defensive halfback most of his rookie season. The Giants acquired him in a spring trade in 1959, giving up a fourth draft choice for the ex-Notre Dame star. With New York, Dick has blossomed into one of the finest defensive backs in the N.F.L. He was the league interception champion in 1961 with nine steals, and repeated as champion in 1963 with an equal number. He ran back three of his 1963 interceptions for touchdowns, however, which set a league record. Dick is one of the hardest tacklers in the business and a tough man to beat in any situation.

SCHOOL: Dick won three football letters at Notre Dame and was the Irish ground-gaining leader and top defensive back. He is best remembered as the back who scored the touchdown in memorable 7-0 win over Oklahoma which snapped Sooner's 47-game winning streak. He won All-midwest honors and played in 1958 All-Star Game and North-South classic.

PERSONAL: Lynch was born April 29, 1936, in Oceanside, L. I. He has five brothers and two sisters. He attended St. Philip and St. James High in New Jersey. He was a second lieutenant in ROTC and served six months active duty in 1959. Dick is married to former airline Stewardess Roz Culp and they have three small daughters, Jennifer, Nancy Joy and Rosalie. He lives on Long Island and works as sales-promotion man for the Weyerhaeuser Co., Shorewood Division, a printing company.

JAMES MORAN

Defensive Tackle

3rd Year

U. of Idaho

24 270 6-5

Spokane, Wash.

PRO: Moran was the No. 10 draft choice of the Giants for the 1964 season and is regarded as one of the most promising linemen to join the club in recent years. Jim's progress in training camp was interrupted by an ankle injury he suffered while practicing with the College All-Stars. He was placed on the taxi squad early in the season and was activated later on when he turned in several impressive performances at defensive tackle. In 1965, Big Jim saw considerable action in the pre-season period but came up with a knee injury which required surgery and which put him on the sidelines again for the entire season.

SCHOOL: At Idaho, Jim earned Lineman of the Week honors on several occasions and was a tower of strength as a defensive tackle in his senior year. Coach Dee Andros said of him, "Jim is the kind of lineman who makes your linebackers look great." Moran was the first Vandal to be named to the Senior Bowl since Jerry Kramer (Green Bay). Jim also was on the College All-Star roster for 1964.

PERSONAL: James Harry Moran was born on May 4, 1942, in Spokane, Wash., where he still makes his home. He was graduated from Gonzaga Prep in 1960. He and his wife, the former Eleanor Hagenbarth, who were married before they left high school, are the parents of five children. Jim majored in physical education at Idaho and finished work toward his degree at Gonzaga University. He hopes to teach and coach.

EARL MORRALL

Quarterback

11th Year

Michigan State

32 206 6-2

Dearborn, Mich.

PRO: Morrall was San Francisco's top draft choice in 1956 and has since played for three other NFL clubs—Pittsburgh (1957), Detroit (1958-64) and New York (1965). Earl was acquired by the Giants in a trade with the Lions just prior to the opening of the regular season in 1965. He came high—Erich Barnes and Darrell Dess—but he was worth the price. He guided a young and inexperienced Giant team to second place with a 7-7 record. He finished as the fifth ranking passer in the league with 155 of 302 for 2,446 yards, and only two other quarterbacks topped his total of 22 TD passes. "We couldn't have done it without him," was coach Al Sherman's observation. Until his emergence as a full-fledged No. 1 quarterback in New York, Morrall had a reputation around the league as "the best relief quarterback in the game." Except for 1957 at Pittsburgh, he always seemed to be second-fiddle to someone else. In San Francisco it was Y. A. Title. In Detroit it was Tobin Rote, Jim Ninowski and Milt Plum. Earl's best year as a pro was 1963 when he played regularly for the Lions, completing 174 of 328 for 2,621 yards and 24 TDs. He's generally acknowledged as a fine passer and an outstanding play-caller and diagnostician.

SCHOOL: An All-American quarterback (AP, NEA, Look and Colliers) at Michigan State, Earl starred in both the 1956 Rose Bowl game and the 1956 College All Star game. He held the NCAA record of average yards per completion in college and was regarded as the Big Ten's outstanding quarterback. He also played three years of varsity baseball for the Spartans and held the dubious distinction of owning the Big Ten record of five errors in one game, a mark later broken by Harvey Kuenn.

PERSONAL: Earl Edwin Morrall was born in Muskegon, Mich., on May 17, 1934, and lived there through his days as a star athlete at Muskegon Senior High School. He comes from a family of three boys. Both his parents are native Michiganites. He is married to the former Jane Marlene Whitehead and they have three children—Matt, 9, Mardi, 8, and Mindy, 4. Earl holds a degree in engineering from Michigan State and represents Gar Wood Industries in the off-season. He also does nightly radio show for the CBS Network during the football season. He is of English descent. Next to football, golf's his favorite past-time.

CHUCK MERCEIN

Yale U.

23 6-2 230

Fullback

2nd Year

Scarsdale, N. Y.

PRO: Mercein was the second choice of the Giants for the 1965 season although he was actually picked on the third round of the draft. The Maramen traded away their own second-round pick but got Chuck with a No. 3 choice obtained from the Pittsburgh Steelers in the trade for Phil King. As a rookie, Mercein saw only limited duty behind Tucker Frederickson at fullback but impressed coach Allie Sherman with his aggressive running style. He was the team's leading ball-carrier against Washington as a fill-in for Frederickson, who was injured. Chuck also will see service this season as a back-up place-kicker behind Pete Gogolak; a leg injury prevented him from doing much kicking as a rookie.

SCHOOL: Counting football and track (he was a shot-putter), Mercein won nine varsity letters during a brilliant athletic career at Yale. A big, aggressive runner, Chuck had a three-year rushing total of 1,210 yards on 240 carries for a solid five-yard average. As a senior in 1964, he was 17th nationally in rushing with 737 yards on 141 tries for a 5.2 average. Additionally, he did duty at linebacker on defense. Mercein's contributions to Yale were not limited to carrying the ball. He also is a fine place kicker who once held the Ivy record of nine field goals and the Yale mark of 11. Against Cornell in 1964, he booted field goals of 48, 46 and 30 yards; the 48-yarder was the longest ever by an Ivy League kicker. Chuck's two biggest days as a runner also occurred in 1964 when he gained 168 yards rushing against Brown and 164 yards against Connecticut. Mercein was All-East, All-Ivy League and received honorable mention on both the UPI and AP All-American teams. In track, Chuck was consistently over 58 feet in the shot. He was the Heptagonal indoor champ.

PERSONAL: Charles Schley Mercein was born on April 9, 1943, in Milwaukee, Wis., and attended New Trier High School in Winnetka, Ill. His father, Thomas Royce Mercein, is a well-known radio announcer in the New York area, and his younger brother Randy is a football player at Penn State. Chuck was a history major at Yale and received a B.A. degree. He hopes for a career in business investments or public relations. He is married to the former Marilyn Mason and they have a year-old son. He is of Italian-French descent.

JOE MORRISON

Offensive Halfback

8th Year

Cincinnati

29 212 6-1

Lima, O.

PRO: Morrison was the No. 3 draft selection for the 1959 season, and developed into one of the finest rookie finds in Giant annals. Joe gained 747 yards by rushing, receiving and running back kicks as a freshman in the NFL. He played both halfback spots when Gifford and Webster were injured. Morrison is not overly fast, but runs with power and nifty change of pace. He was the club's second best ground-gainer in 1960 with 346 yards, and also caught 29 passes for another 367 yards in 1961, when injuries hit the Giants' secondary, Morrison was switched to defense and finished up as the regular left safety. He intercepted two passes, one of which set up the Giants' only TD in the division-clinching 7-7 tie with Cleveland. As an all-purpose back in 1962, Joe carried 35 times for 146 yards and caught six passes for 107 yards. Morrison had his best rushing year in 1963 with 568 yards on 119 carries. Joe was the Giants' starting halfback in 1964 and had 45 carries for 138 yards. When an ulcer attack forced Del Shofner out of the lineup, Morrison switched to Del's split end position and finished as the second highest Giant receiver with 40 catches for 505 yards. He led the Maramen in pass-catching in 1965 with 41 for 574 yards.

SCHOOL: Joe was one of Cincinnati's all-time greats. He set a school career scoring record of 128 points, and tied another individual mark at 21 touchdowns in three varsity seasons. Morrison was a standout quarterback in soph and junior seasons but was switched to halfback in 1958. He led Missouri Valley Conference scorers in 1959 with 56 points and caught 27 passes for 303 yards. Joe gained 467 yards rushing for a 4.7 yard average and also starred on defense.

PERSONAL: Morrison was born August 21, 1937. He is married to the former Barbara McDorman and they have three children. Joe works for a steel company in Ohio during the off-season. He is of Scotch-English descent.

JIMMY PATTON

Defensive Back

12th Year

U. of Mississippi

33 185 5-11

Stamford, Conn.

PRO: Patton was drafted on the eighth round in 1955 after impressing pro scouts with his speed and ball-hawking ability. As a rookie, Jim scored touchdowns on a 98-yard kickoff return and a 70-yard punt return in the same game. He was the NFL interception champion in 1958 with 11 steals, and tied for second in 1961 with eight. Jim plays regular right safety spot for the Giants and is regarded as the dean of pro defensive backs. He was named to the Pro Bowl from 1960 through 1963 and he also is a perennial All Pro selection on defense. Patton served as assistant defensive player-coach for three seasons, but in 1965 he devoted his time to playing only.

SCHOOL: Jim is regarded as one of the finest defensive football players ever turned out at Mississippi. He also starred on offense for Ole Miss and once scored 26 points in a single game—against Tulane. Jim won varsity letters in baseball and track in addition to three football monograms. He was timed in 9.9 for the hundred. Jim played in the Sugar Bowl games in 1953 and 1955. He was captain at Ole Miss his senior year.

PERSONAL: Jim was born on September 29, 1933, in Greenville, Miss., where he attended E. E. Bass High School and was a star quarterback there. He is married to the former Adonis Bridgers and they have four children, all boys. Jim is employed as a sales representative in the off-season. He plays the clarinet and his hobbies include hunting and fishing.

JIM PRESTEL

Defensive Tackle

7th Year

Idaho

29 275 6-5

Minneapolis, Minn.

PRO: Originally a No. 8 draft choice of the Cleveland Browns in 1959, Jim went to the Vikings in a trade in 1961 where he was a starting tackle through last season. Came to the Giants during the off-season in a trade for defensive end Bill Briggs. Regarded as a strong pass rusher. Biggest thrill for Jim came in 1964 when he blocked an attempted pass by Milt Plum of Detroit, caught it and ran it 26 yards for a touchdown.

SCHOOL: Was honorable mention All-American two years at Idaho where he earned three varsity letters in football and was captain of the 1959 team. Jim also played varsity basketball at Idaho, winning three varsity letters as a center. Twice scored TD's in college on pass receptions on the tackle-eligible play.

PERSONAL: Born in Indianapolis, June 28, 1937 and attended high school there, playing on two city champion teams. Of German descent, Jim is married to the former Phyllis Ann Wiltsey and is the father of a two-year-old daughter Bonnie Marie. Prestel majored in education at Idaho and is employed by the Hormel Co. in the off-season as a sales promotion man.

SMITH REED

Halfback

2nd Year

Alcorn A & M

24 218 5-11

Brookhaven, Miss.

PRO: Drafted far down the list (No. 19) by the Giants for the 1965 season, Reed developed into one of the most promising young runners on the New York roster. Although not a regular in the Baby Bulls backfield, he averaged 3.7 yards a carry as a rookie and displayed great speed to the outside. Coach Allie Sherman feels Smith has a place in the Giants' future backfield plans.

COLLEGE: At Alcorn A & M, a school in Lorman, Miss., Reed twice earned Little All America honors in a brilliant four-year varsity career. The Atlanta Daily World named him the College Player of the Year in 1964. Reed was a genuine one-man offense at Alcorn. He once gained 209 yards rushing in less than a half! As a junior, he gained 928 yards rushing. His rushing total per game as a senior was well over 100 yards. He runs the hundred in 9.6.

PERSONAL: Smith was born June 25, 1942, in Vicksburg, Miss., and now makes his home in Redwood, Miss. He is one of 12 children in the Reed clan—six boys and six girls. Smitty is married (his wife's first name is Precious) and he hopes to someday enter the recreation field. He majored in physical education at Alcorn A&M.

BOB SCHOLTZ

Center

6th Year

U. of Notre Dame

28 250 6-4

Whitestone, N. Y.

PRO: Scholtz was the No. 3 draft choice of Detroit for 1960 and played four seasons with the Lions, with time out for Army service in 1962, before being acquired on waivers by the Giants prior to the 1965 season. He played a total of 157 minutes for the Lions in 1964 but was primarily a reserve. With the Giants, he filled the void at center when Greg Larson's knee injury failed to respond to treatment.

SCHOOL: Bob earned All-American honorable mention as a two-way player at Notre Dame in 1958-59. He was highly regarded as a linebacker in college but the pro scouts saw him more as a center prospect. He won three football letters and playing a starring role in the 1959 East-West Shrine game.

PERSONAL: Robert Joseph Scholtz was born in Watertown, S. D., on December 25, 1937, but grew up in Tulsa, Okla., where he was an all-state center at Tulsa Marquette High. Bob, who holds an electrical engineering degree from Notre Dame, is married to the former Barbara Zyskowski and they have a four-year-old daughter. Scholtz has worked as a computer programmer and in engineering sales. He's of German, French and Irish descent. Bob has a commercial pilot's license and does a lot of flying.

DEL SHOFNER

Offensive End

10th Year

Baylor University

31 190 6-3

San Marino, Calif.

PRO: The Los Angeles Rams had two first-round draft picks in 1956—their own, of course, and one they had received from the Giants in exchange for defensive end Andy Robustelli. The Rams chose Jon Arnett and then, using the Giants' No. 1 selection, they drafted Del Shofner. As a rookie in 1957, Shofner played defensive halfback for the Rams. In 1958, however, he was moved to offensive end and immediately became a sensation by catching 51 passes for a league high of 1,097 yards. Del had another good year in 1959 with 47 receptions but injuries slowed him down the following season and, prior to the 1961 campaign, he was traded to the Giants for a No. 1 draft choice. Del responded by catching 68 passes for 1,125 yards, tops in the NFL, as New York won the eastern title. In 1962 he again finished high on the league receiving list with 53 for 1,133 yards and 12 touchdowns. His third year with the Giants (1963) was also a brilliant one—64 catches for 1,181 yards. In his NFL career, Del has won All Pro designation five times (twice with the Rams and three times with New York) and has appeared in five Pro Bowl games.

SCHOOL: Del entered Baylor College in Waco, Tex., in September, 1953, and graduated in 1957 after one of the most brilliant football, track and basketball careers in the school's history. All told, he won seven varsity letters—three in football, two in baseball and two in track. In 1956 he led Baylor in rushing, scoring, receiving, punting, pass interceptions, punt and kickoff returns—every department except passing. In addition, his 60 points and 40.7 punting average led the Southwest Conference in these categories. As a running halfback, Del averaged 6.1 yards per carry during his three varsity seasons. A 9.8 sprinter, he ran the anchor leg on the Baylor half-mile relay team which won that event at the Drake, Texas and Kansas relays, and on the 440-yard relay team which tied the world record at 40.2. In basketball, the 6-3 stringbean was regular forward for three years. Del played in the 1957 Sugar Bowl against Tennessee and was named MVP. He also played in the 1954 Gator Bowl, the Senior Bowl and the College All Star game. All this was accomplished despite the fact that Shofner suffered severely from anemia and ulcers all during his career at Baylor.

PERSONAL: Shofner was born on December 11, 1934, in Center, Tex., and he was an all-round athletic star at Center High before winning a scholarship to Baylor. Del comes from a family of seven children, two boys and five girls, and he is of German-English descent. He majored in math at Baylor and was an above-average student. He is married to the former Carol Seley and they have a daughter. Shofner plays golf as often as he can when he isn't working in sales on the West Coast. Del spent six months as a Pfc. in the Army reserve.

 Came to Giants

LOU SLABY

Defensive Tackle

3rd Year

U. of Pittsburgh

24 235 6-3

Paterson, N. J.

PRO: Slaby was drafted on the fifth round by the Giants for the 1963 season and after an impressive showing in training camp, was retained on the taxi squad that year. The trade of Sam Huff and an injury to Huff's heir-apparent, Jerry Hillebrand, in 1964 gave Lou the chance he had been waiting for. He stepped into the middle linebacking spot and did such a convincing job that Hillebrand was kept at corner linebacker when he came off the injured list. Lou played every minute on defense.

In 1965, when injuries decimated the Giants' defensive line, Slaby was shifted to defensive tackle for the final four games of the year and is expected to remain at that position with Hillebrand moving back to middle linebacker.

SCHOOL: Lou was listed as a fullback with Pittsburgh but spent most of his playing time as a corner man on defense. He was a keen diagnostician and was regarded as the most aggressive tackler on the Panther squad. He won three football letters and also played basketball. Lou took part in the 1962 All-American Bowl game and the 1963 Crusader Bowl.

PERSONAL: Slaby was born on December 13, 1941, in Cleveland O., and now lives in Paterson, N. J. Lou received his degree in mechanical engineering at Pittsburgh last spring. He hopes to enter the field of industrial management some day. Lou is a quiet fellow who spends his leisure hours reading or listening to music. He is of Slovak descent.

BILL SWAIN

Linebacker

4th Year

U. of Oregon

25 230 6-2

North Bend, Ore.

PRO: Swain was signed as a free agent by the Los Angeles Rams in 1963, played for the Minnesota Vikings in 1964 and came to the Giants in a trade (for a draft choice) prior to the 1965 season. He has played both middle and corner linebacker in the NFL but was strictly an outside man with New York.

SCHOOL: Although Bill was not considered a top pro prospect at Oregon, he caught the eye of Rams' coach (and ex-Giant linebacker) Harland Svare, who signed him as a free agent. Bill won three letters at Oregon and played both linebacker and center.

PERSONAL: William Steve Swain was born on February 22, 1941, in Dickinson, N. Dakota. Shortly thereafter, his family moved to North Bend, Ore., where his play as a high school lineman attracted the attention of U. of Oregon scouts. A bachelor, Bill majored in education in college. He took a job in New York City in the Spring of 1966 and hopes to make his home here. Bill is of German-Irish descent.

AARON THOMAS

Offensive End

6th Year

Oregon State

28 210 6-3

Portland, Ore.

PRO: Thomas was the fourth round draft pick of the San Francisco 49ers in 1961 and came into the NFL with the reputation of being one of the brightest young receiving stars in many years. The Giants acquired Aaron at the start of the 1962 season in a straight player deal for halfback Bobby Gaiters. Thomas saw only limited action, catching four passes for 80 yards, but in 1963 he played tight end, flanker and split end and caught 22 passes for 469 yards and three touchdowns, easily fulfilling his earlier promise as a receiver. He led the club with an average of 21.3 yards per catch. Aaron became the leading Giant receiver in 1964 with 43 catches for 624 yards and six touchdowns.

SCHOOL: At Oregon State, coach Tommy Prothro called Thomas "the best end I've ever coached." An injury sidelined Aaron most of his senior year but he was highly regarded enough to be named the starting end on the West Shrine squad. As a sophomore at Oregon State, he caught 11 aerials for 180 yards, and as a junior end he snared 13 for 165 yards. Aaron captained the Oregon State eleven as a senior and earned three major letters. He played in the Senior Bowl, and the College All-Star game.

PERSONAL: Thomas was born on November 7, 1937, in Dierks, Ark. He was a fabulous athlete at Weed High School in California before going on to Oregon State. Aaron is married to the former Jeanie Cairney and they have two young sons. He hopes to enter school administration after his football days.

STEVE THURLOW

Offensive Halfback

3rd Year

Stanford U.

24 220 6-3

New York City

PRO: Drafted on the second round by the Giants for the 1964 season, Thurlow is one of the finest young backs to join the club in a long time. Steve, who can run and pass, was hampered by injuries and played only briefly as a rookie but showed enough to hold out promise for the future. One of the Giants' "Baby Bulls," his offensive record for 1964-65 shows 166 carries for 650 yards and six touchdowns, and four of six option passes for another 114 yards. Steve is the kind of back who can crack inside the tackles or turn the ends.

SCHOOL: Thurlow played quarterback for Stanford during the 1962 season but was switched over to halfback in 1963 because of his running ability. The switch was a profitable one for both Thurlow and Stanford. Steve ran the ball 92 times and gained 595 yards, scoring four touchdowns and averaging well over five yards a carry. He also completed eight of 19 passes for 176 yards and two TDs and caught six for 53 yards and one touchdown. Thurlow was sidelined most of his sophomore year with mononucleosis but had a spectacular career nevertheless: 210 rushes for 795 yards, 78 completions in 168 attempts for 844 yards and nine touchdowns, and a total of 46 points scored. Steve won three letters in football, and one each in baseball and rugby.

PERSONAL: Steve was born on April 25, 1942, in Long Beach, Calif., and later became a three-sport star at Escondido, Calif., Union High. He has a brother, Toby, who plays football at USC and another brother, Nick, who is baseball regular at the U. of California. A bachelor, Steve has a degree in political science and hopes to enter either the law profession or international relations. He is of English descent.

BOB TIMBERLAKE

Quarterback

2nd Year

U. of Michigan

23 220 6-4

Princeton, N. J.

PRO: Timberlake was selected on the third round of the player draft for 1965 after a brilliant all-round football career at Michigan. Although he saw no duty in regular season games as a rookie, big Bob did handle the Giants' kickoff and place-kicking chores in the absence of Chuck Mercein and was also a valuable member of the special teams. He used his rookie year to work on his passing and general quarterbacking, and coach Allie Sherman now believes Bob is ready to step in if and when he's needed.

SCHOOL: There weren't many honors Timberlake missed during his playing days at Michigan. He was named to several All-American teams in 1964, was a two-time All-Big Ten choice, was the Big Ten's most valuable player in 1964, was twice named to the Big Ten Academic team and was Back of the Year in 1963. Enroute to the Rose Bowl that year, Bob led Michigan's ball-carriers with 574 yards on 144 tries, was the No. 1 passer with 63 of 127 for 807 yards and topped all scorers with 80 points, a total which won him the conference point championship. He also kicked 20 extra points and four field goals. His total yardage of 1,381 represented a Michigan single-season record. His career passing totals show 126 completions in 259 attempts for 1,579 yards—not bad considering that Michigan is basically a ground attack team.

Bob earned three varsity letters, all in football, at Ann Arbor.

PERSONAL: Was born on October 18, 1943, in Middletown, O. at Franklin (O.) High, he captained the football, basketball and golf teams. His academic honors at Michigan included the Robert L. Drake Scholarship Award, the Myron Steinberg Scholarship Award, the John Maulbetsch Award and the Michigama Honor Society. Bob had a 3.05 grade average as a sociology major. After his rookie season with New York, Timberlake got married and entered ministerial school at Princeton University, living on campus with his wife. He does a lot of speaking before church groups and also is an avid golfer. He is of welsh descent.

OLEN UNDERWOOD

Linebacker

2nd Year

U. of Texas

24 225 6-2

Channelview, Tex.

PRO: One of the talented crop of rookies who made it as a regular in 1965. Underwood spent most of his first pro season as a corner linebacker, where he gave promising of eventually developing into a top performer. His play bore out the word of Pop Ivy, the Giants' defensive coach who had scouted Olen as a collegian and who reported that the Longhorn star had "great natural defensive instinct." Based on this report, the Giants made Underwood their No. 14 draft choice. At Texas, he was a teammate of Giant halfback Ernie Koy.

SCHOOL: Underwood played guard and linebacker at Texas in 1962 and 1963 but was switched to center and defensive tackle by coach Darrell Royal in his senior year. It was a profitable switch for both Olen and the Longhorns. Underwood played both ways and was a vital cog as Texas ran up an 8-1 record and then upset No. 1 ranked Alabama in the Orange Bowl. Said Royal, "Olen took charge with his fine play and leadership. He kept our team together when the going got tough." Originally, Underwood had decided to quit football at Texas but Royal persuaded him to come out for spring practice in 1964—and that did the trick. Olen played in the 1963 and 1964 Cotton Bowl games in addition to the 1965 Orange Bowl.

PERSONAL: Underwood was born on May 25, 1942, in Holly Grove, Tex. He is married to the former JoAnn Walter and they live in Channelview, Tex. He received a degree in personnel management in June. His hobbies are hunting and fishing.

LARRY VARGO

Defensive Back

5th Year

Detroit University

27 215 6-3

Detroit, Mich.

PRO: Drafted No. 11 as a "future" by the Detroit Lions in 1961 as an offensive end, then was switched to defensive back where he returned an interception 42 yards for a TD against the Bears in the season finale. Went to the Vikings in a trade in 1964 and was the regular free safety for Minnesota. Came to the Giants along with tackle Jim Prestel in an off-season trade for defensive end Bill Briggs and a draft choice.

SCHOOL: A top receiver at the University of Detroit, Vargo ranked 5th in the nation with 32 receptions as a senior in 1961. A Catholic All-American selection, Vargo had best day in college against Navy when he caught 11 passes for three touchdowns. Played in Senior Bowl and North-South Shrine games.

GARY WOOD

Quarterback

3rd Year

Cornell U.

24 185 5-11

New York City

PRO: The Giants made Wood their No. 8 draft choice for the 1964 season off his brilliant three-year career at Cornell, where he set a flock of offensive records. Although Ivy League quarterbacks seldom make the grade in pro ball, Gary was an immediate hit in camp. Coach Allie Sherman liked what he saw in the rugged youngster. When the final cuts were made, Wood was the No. 2 quarterback behind Y. A. Tittle. And when Tittle was injured, Wood took over as the starter. He appeared in 12 of 14 games as a rookie, completing 66 of 143 passes for 952 yards and six touchdowns. Over the last four games, the Ivy Leaguer was red hot. He completed 43 of 80 for 652 yards and five TDs. Gary had only three passes intercepted, which ties the second best mark in NFL annals. In 1965, Wood was No. 2 man behind Earl Morrall.

SCHOOL: In a sensational 27-game career at Cornell, Wood set five major Ivy League offense records: career total offense (3,457 yards); career rushing (1,867 yards); single season total offense (1,616 yards in 1962); single season rushing (813 yards in 1962), and single game total offense (387 yards vs. Penn in 1962). As a senior, Gary led the nation in kickoff returns 818 yards. He made the Associated Press All-East team and was a three-time member of the All-Ivy League squad. As a junior, he was third in the country in total offense (1,779 yards) and fourth in rushing (889 yards). He pitched and played the infield for the Big Red baseball team in 1962 but did not play in 1963. Gary earned four letters.

PERSONAL: Gary was born on February 5, 1942, in Taylor, N. Y. He was a star athlete at Cortland (N. Y.) High and received numerous scholarship offers. He chose Cornell because he liked its school of hotel administration. He and his wife Jill live in New York City with their one child and Gary works for the Westchester Country Club in the off-season, plus learning the insurance business.

SCHOOL: Received All-East honors while at Syracuse University where he was a member of the 1959 Orange national championship team.

PERSONAL: Born in Eagle Bay, N. Y., Maury is married and now resides in Syracuse in the off-season.

ROOKIE BIOGRAPHIES

STEVE BOWMAN

Halfback

Rookie

U. of Alabama

21 195 6-0

Pascagorila, Miss.

PRO: Bowman was the Giants' No. 15 draft selection and, while pro scouts did not give him top billing, he is reputed to be a tough, hard-nosed runner who gets yardage despite a lack of great speed and size. Some have called him a "Joe Morrison type" back.

SCHOOL: Generally acknowledged as "the best running back at Alabama in years," Steve was the second leading rusher in Crimson Tide annals behind Bobby Marlow. His three-year rushing total was 1,452 yards on 298 carries for a 5.0 average. He was named to the all-Southeastern Conference team in 1964 and 1965 and last year he led the conference in rushing with 779 yards on 153 tries for a 5.2 average. He scored two key TDs in the Orange Bowl upset of Nebraska in 1965, and also played in the 1964 Orange Bowl and the 1963 Sugar Bowl.

PERSONAL: Steven E. Bowman was born on November 30, 1944, in Pascagorila, Miss., where he still lives when he isn't playing football. He is one of seven boys. He majored in industrial arts at Alabama but has not yet decided on what he wants to do. Steve is still single.

MIKE CICCOLELLA

Linebacker

Rookie

U. of Dayton

22 235 6-1

Follansbee, West Va.

PRO: Drafted as a "future" on the eighteenth round in 1965, Ciccolella is considered a fine linebacking prospect. He's big, tough and has keen defensive instinct. One pro scout reported that "... Ciccolella can diagnose a play and tackle as well as any college linebacker I've seen." Coach Allie Sherman sees Mike as a middle linebacking candidate.

SCHOOL: As a middle linebacker, Ciccolella averaged almost 15 tackles per game at Dayton. He injured his knee in 1964, missing most of the season, but returned the following year to win two awards as Dayton's outstanding defensive player. Mike won Catholic All-American honors and was captain of the Dayton eleven.

PERSONAL: Michael Eugene Ciccolella was born on October 19, 1943, in Follansbee, West Va., and naturally, his boyhood hero was Giants linebacker Sam Huff, a fellow West Virginian. DON DAVIS

Defensive Tackle

Rookie

L. A. State College

21 260 6-6

Santa Ana, Calif.

PRO: An outstanding two-way tackle at Los Angeles State College, Davis was drafted No. 2 by the Giants primarily for his defensive ability. He was particularly effective as a pass-rusher—and that's what the pros look for in a young defensive lineman. Although he's big enough at 6-6 and 260 to play defense as a pro, the Giants feel Don may weigh around 275 when he matures.

SCHOOL: Davis is the only player in history to win offensive and defensive first-team designation on the all-California Collegiate AA eleven. He also was a two-time defensive choice on the Associated Press All-West Coast team. Prior to entering L.A. State, Don starred for two years at Santa Ana (Calif.) Junior College, where he twice earned Junior College All-American laurels and won two MVP awards in the Junior Rose Bowl. His coach at L.A. State was Homer Beatty, who said of him, "He's as good an all-around tackle as there is in college football today." Beatty was ex-Giant Frank Gifford's high school coach.

PERSONAL: Davis was born in Santa Ana, Calif., where he was an all-state high school lineman. A bachelor, Don majored in business administration at L.A. State and was a good student.

GARY EICKMAN

Defensive Tackle

Rookie

U. of Illinois

21 230 6-3

Chicago, Ill.

PRO: Gary, who was the Giants' No. 17 draft pick, is known in the trade as a "late bloomer." The 6-3 230-pounder was just another ballplayer at Illinois as a sophomore, and didn't attract too much attention as a junior. But in 1965, as a senior, he came on strong, prompting coach Pete Elliott to call him "the most improved lineman on the team." The Giants plan to look at Gary at defensive tackle. He should weigh at least 245-250 in another year.

SCHOOL: As a tackle and defensive end, Eickman earned all-Big Ten honors in 1965 and also received honorable mention on several All-American teams. One of his finest days as a senior defensive end came in Illinois' smashing 16-0 upset of Michigan State. Gary's fierce tackling helped hold the Spartans to 66 yards rushing. This performance undoubtedly won him a spot on the north team in the annual Blue-Gray game. Gary won three varsity letters in football but did not compete in any other sport.

PERSONAL: Gary Edwin Eickman was born on January 24, 1944, in Chicago, Ill., which he still calls home. A bachelor, he majored in economics at Illinois but is undecided as to what he wants to do for a living in the future. His hobby is weight-lifting. He is of German-Norwegian descent.

JIM FULGHAMDefensive Tackle*Rookie*U. of Minnesota*21 282 6-6*Biwabik, Minn.

PRO: Fulgham, the Giants' No. 13 draft pick, comes to the pros amid glowing reports on his size and speed. At 6-6 and 280 pounds, Jim will be placed at defensive tackle. He is said to have unusual quickness and mobility for a big man.

SCHOOL: Jim was a starting offensive tackle for Minnesota as a junior and senior, and was also a key man on the Gophers' goal-line defensive unit. It's said that no one ever scored a touchdown over his position.

PERSONAL: Fulgham, a native of Biwabik, Minn., was a four-sport star at Biwabik's Horace Mann High School, earning letters in football, basketball, baseball and track. In the latter sport, Jim ran the sprint events at 6-5 and 265 pounds! A bachelor, he majored in economics at the U. of Minnesota, where he was the biggest man on the varsity football squad.

CHARLIE HARPERDefensive Tackle*Rookie*Oklahoma State*21 250 6-0*Broken Arrow, Okla.

PRO: Selected on the eighth round of the draft for 1966, Charlie Harper comes to the Giants highly regarded as a hard-nosed, aggressive defensive prospect. Harper was primarily a middle guard at Oklahoma State but coach Allie Sherman sees him more as a defensive tackle candidate.

SCHOOL: A unanimous Big Eight selection and an honorable mention All-American, Harper led Oklahoma State in defensive statistics in 1964 and 1965—and by a wide margin. In three seasons, he was credited with 75 unassisted and 175 assisted tackles and four fumble recoveries. After his final season, he turned in top performances on defense in both the East-West and Shrine games. Charlie won three football letters but did not play in any other sports.

PERSONAL: Charles Lynnwood Harper was born on August 14, 1944, in Haskell, Okla., an only child. The Harper family later moved to Broken Arrow, Okla., where Charlie became an all-round high school star. He is married to the former Linda Sue Lawhorn. PHIL HARRISDefensive Halfback*Rookie*U. of Texas*22 195 6-0*San Antonio, Tex.

PRO: The versatile Harris was the Giants' No. 7 draft choice for 1966 after playing both wingback and tailback on offense and halfback on defense at Texas. A smart aggressive player, Phil will be tried first as a defensive back by the Giants.

SCHOOL: Phil did it all at Texas for three seasons, leading the Longhorns in rushing in 1965 and earning the reputation of being Texas' top pass receiver and blocking back as well. Played in the Cotton Bowl in 1964, the Orange Bowl in 1966. Had biggest day against Navy in that Cotton Bowl with two touchdown pass receptions and 140 yards gained through pass receiving.

PERSONAL: Harris was born on September 13, 1944, in Jackson Hole, Wyoming, but now lives in San Antonio. He is married to the former Kaylene Foerster. Phil majored in accounting at Texas, earned a degree in business administration and was a member of Kappa Alpha. He is undecided as to what kind of career he will pursue after his football days are over.

DICK HERZINGDefensive Tackle*Rookie*Drake University*24 250 6-3*No. Babylon, I. I.

PRO: Herzing signed with the Giants as a free agent after being a No. 7 "future" choice of the Green Bay Packers in 1964. Dick made a favorable impression in the Packer camp a year ago and was one of the final cuts made by Vince Lombardi. Reports on Dick indicate he is very strong and aggressive.

SCHOOL: Dick first attended Marquette University and subsequently transferred to Drake. He was both a defensive tackle and linebacker at Drake and was named to several All-Opponents teams in both 1964 and 1965. Herzing had a big day against Idaho State when he blocked two punts, made 13 unassisted tackles and recovered a fumble.

PERSONAL: Herzing was born in Queens, N. Y., on July 16, 1942, and graduated from Fordham Prep where he starred as a center and linebacker. A bachelor, Dick is of German-Italian descent and is planning on a career in either sales advertising or in travel agency work after his football days.

24 250 6-1

Odessa, Tex.

SCHOOL: Will played four varsity seasons at New Mexico State, and earned two letters in track as well, as a shot-putter and discus thrower. Hudgins was an All-Conference defensive selection twice with his specialty being the ability to blast pass blockers and get to the quarterback.

PERSONAL: Hudgins was born on October 31, 1941, in Bay City, Texas, and starred at Blacksher High in Odessa. He is married to the former Rose Dell Garner and is the father of two daughters. Will is planning on a career in coaching after his playing days, and lists golf as his favorite hobby.

BILL MATAN

Defensive End

Rookie

Kansas State U.

22 240 6-3

St. Louis, Mo.

PRO: Matan was selected as the No. 8 draft choice of the Giants for 1966, and scouts rate him highly as either a tight end, linebacker or defensive end. The Giants will give Bill a long look at the latter position.

SCHOOL: Bill's college coach Doug Weaver calls Matan "the hardest working, most dedicated player I've ever coached" and Missouri's Dan Devine called Bill "the best defensive end we've seen." Matan was twice an All-Big Eight selection and logged more playing time than any other Kansas State gridder for three years. Had a big day against Colorado with two fumble recoveries, an intercepted pass and 10 tackles. Also played two years of varsity baseball at K-State and was once the Junior American League Player of the Year.

SCHOOL: Veteran Syracuse coach Ben Schwartzwalder rates Howard as "one of the top interior offensive linemen we've had at Syracuse in recent years." Was selected to play for the Blue team in last year's Blue-Gray game and turned in an outstanding job.

SCHOOL: Peay's chief assets are size, agility and second effort, all of which helped Missouri to a great season and a Sugar Bowl bid where it scored a 20-18 win over Florida. Peay's great power blocking produced most of the holes that enabled Missouri to roll up an average of 247 yards rushing per game during the season. He is rated a top pass blocker as well. Peay was a defensive tackle in his junior year at Missouri, but switched to offensive tackle in his senior year and became one of Missouri's all-time greats at that position. Offensive Tackle

Rookie

U. of Illinois

23 240 6-1

He will get a shot at offensive tackle the second time around.

He led the Aggies in tackles his senior year, and earned three varsity letters at A & M. Against Georgia Tech, he stopped a Tech drive on the A & M one-yard line with a bruising tackle, producing a fumble which Joe recovered to save a 14-10 win for the Aggies.

SCHOOL: Was one of the standouts as Nebraska compiled a 22-game winning streak during a three-year span. White has great speed to go along with his rugged 225-pound frame and set seven pass receiving records while at Nebraska including total receptions for both season and career, most yards for season and career, and longest reception for a touchdown.
